Conclusions

- This is the first report of the molecular analysis of Noonan syndrome in a country from Balkan region.
- Clinical recognition of the syndrome was successful.
- Two rare mutations detected in a small number of patients require further genetic analysis in this region.